

Propagate this!

This project is called Propagate This!

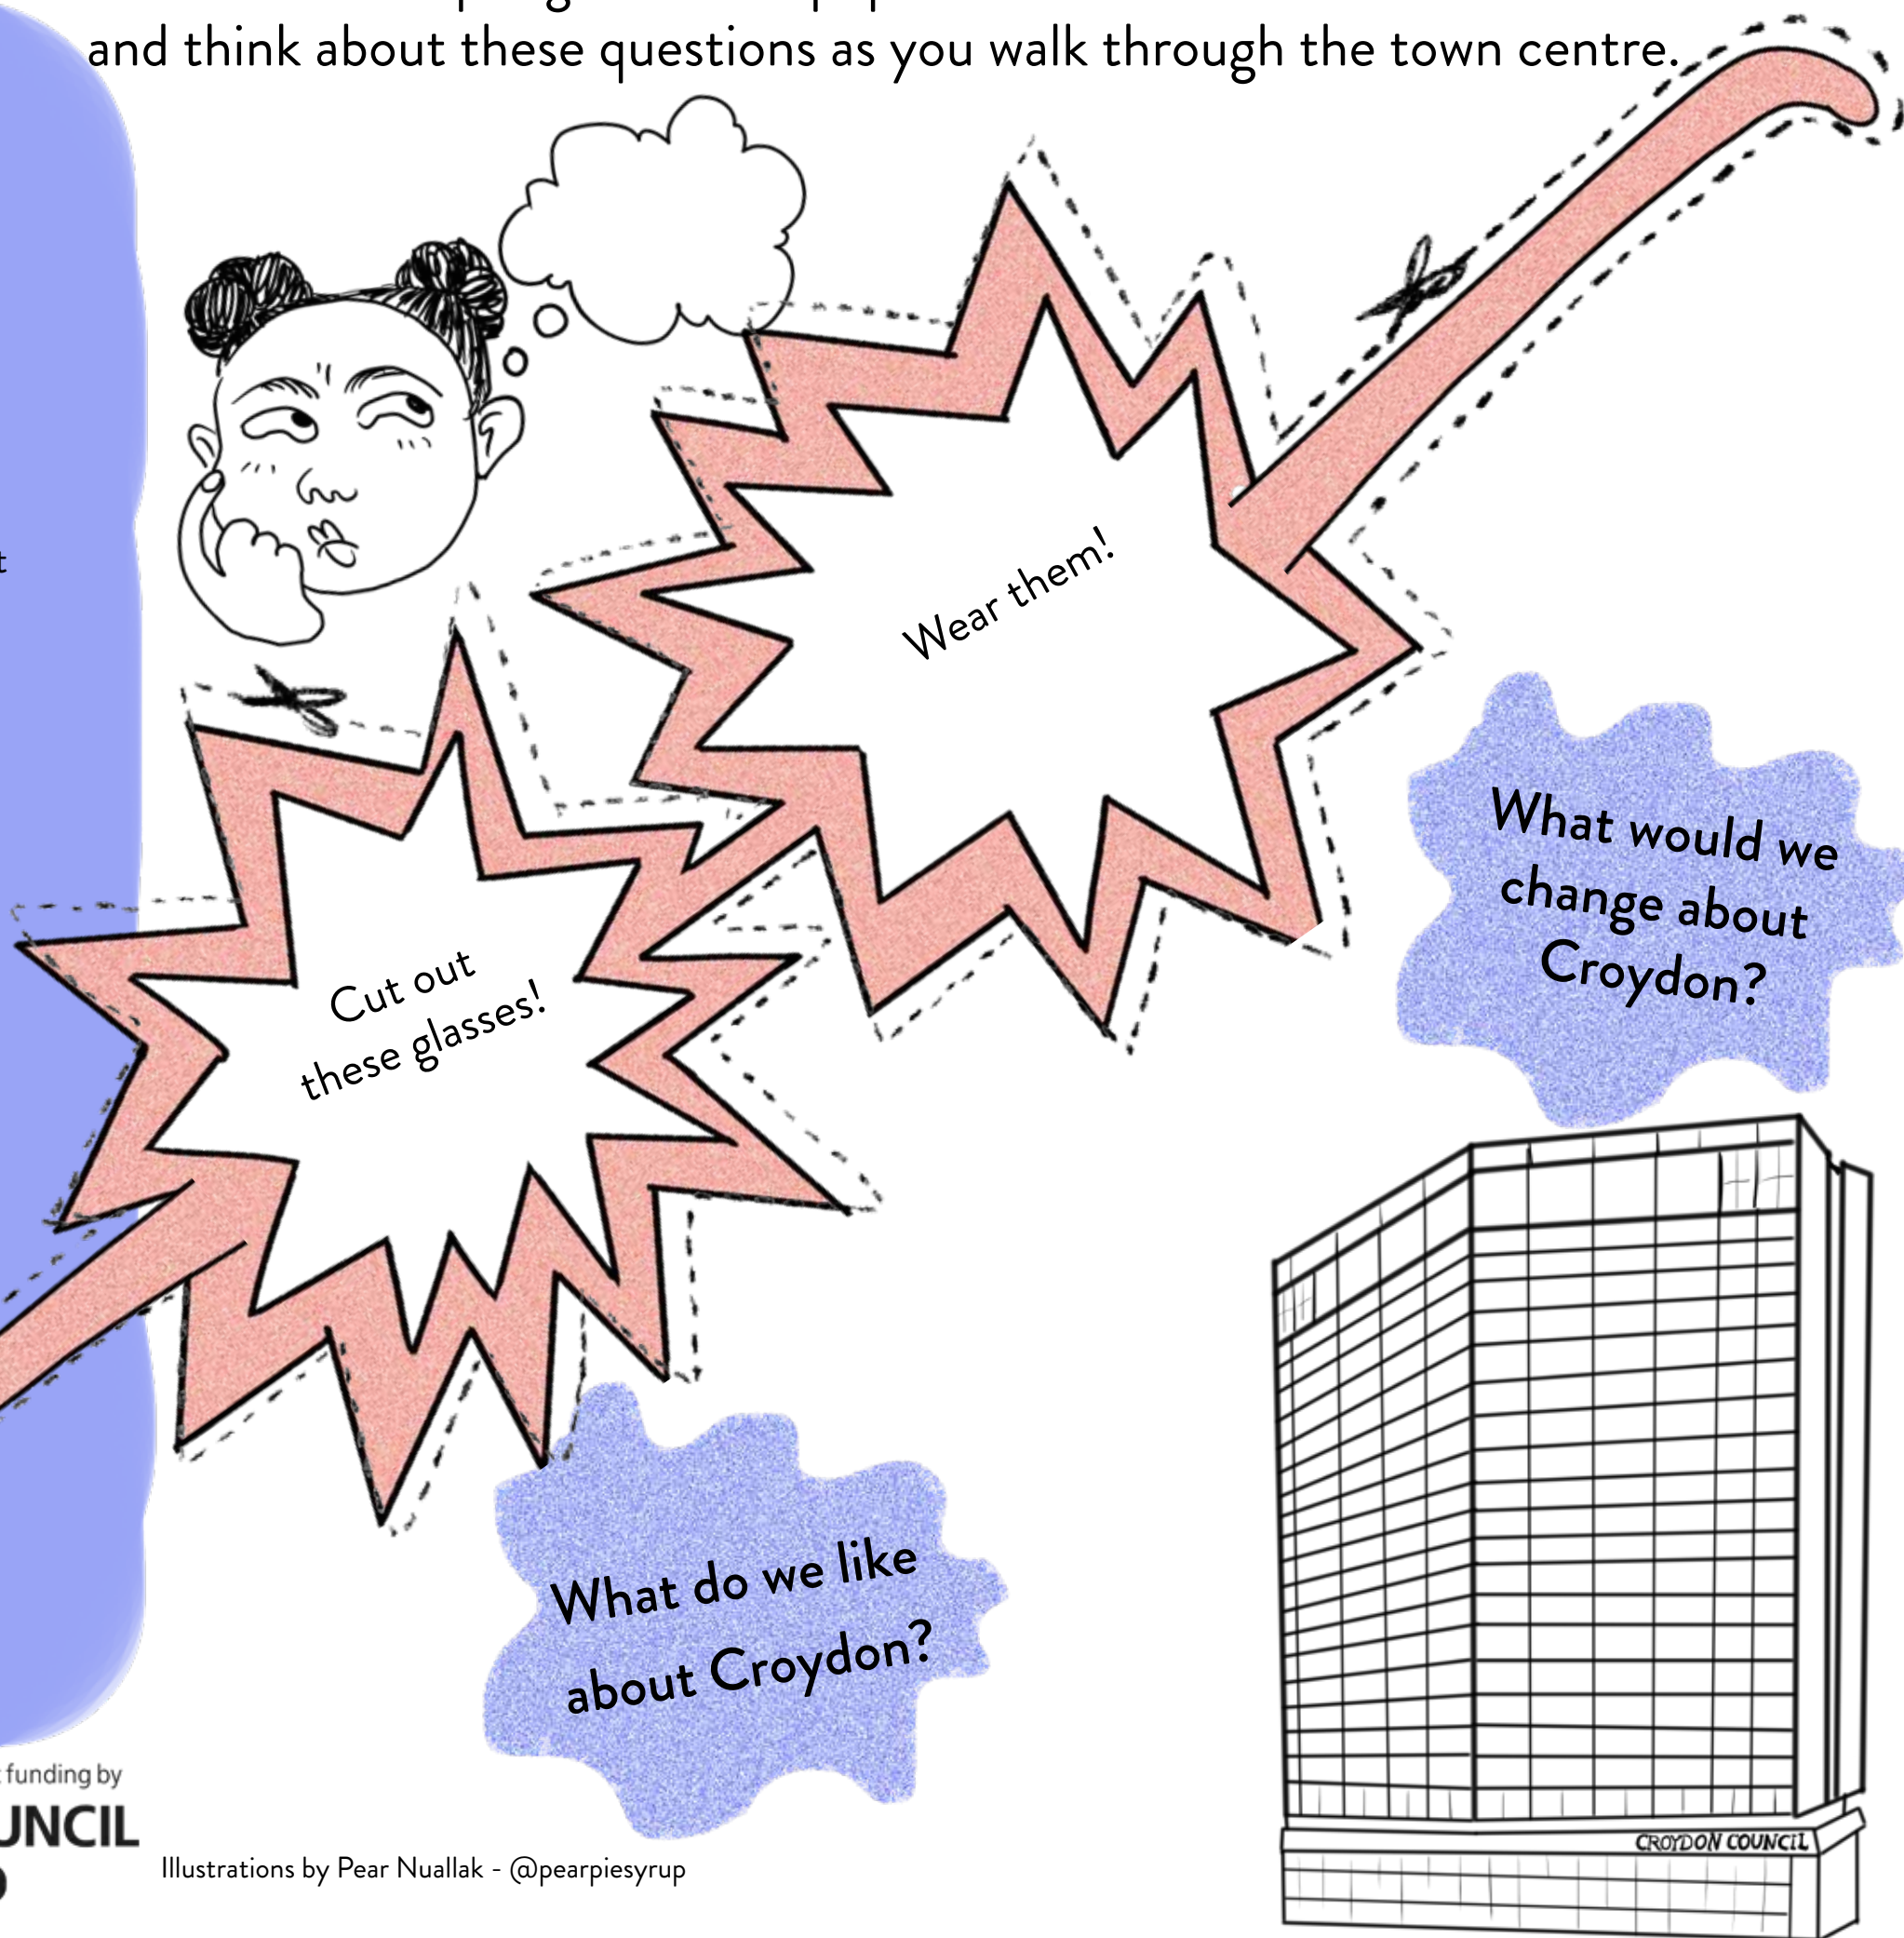

Propagation is when a plant (a mother plant) is shared to make another plant (a baby plant) through making its own seeds or someone taking a leaf or cutting a piece of a plant that they then put in soil. This then grows into a new plant. This time we haven't made any artworks but we are working with lots of different artists just like how plants propagate.

Freedom & Balance is the 'mother plant' artist sharing ideas and thoughts with 'baby plant' artists who are named Joseph Brown, Helen Butlin, Bea & Jill Finch, Orna Kazimi, Pear Nuallak and Kashif Sharma-Patel. These ideas are things that will be shared with passers by and people who come into use Turf!

Instead of making art, we asked the artists to think how they would solve problems in Croydon and how everyone could work together in different ways.

Would you like to help them answer some of their questions??

Cut out these super glasses and pop them on. Have a BIG look around and think about these questions as you walk through the town centre.

TURF

Supported using public funding by
ARTS COUNCIL ENGLAND

Illustrations by Pear Nuallak - @pearpiesyrup

Activity 2

Can you think of how home feels?

Write or draw in the wiggly box.

1. What home looks like,
2. What it feels like

How do we welcome people into Croydon when they have just arrived?
Make a welcome sign for people who have just arrived!
Use any language or draw a welcoming picture.

Sometimes, for lots of reasons, people have to leave their home countries for lots of reasons and Croydon is one of the first places people end up coming to.

This is because to move to a new country you have to apply for permission to live there and this is called 'leave to remain'. A group of people who decide who can stay are called the Home Office. Croydon is where the home office is.

This can be a bit scary if you have not been to Croydon before and when you are not sure what is going to happen next.

What gift would you give to someone who has just moved or arrived to Croydon to make them feel welcome?

Decorate, cut out and stick this pocket template together.
Find or make something to put inside and give it to someone else!

1. Fold your template in half.

2. Glue along side A and side B and stick together.

